

Heaven and Hell

“The road to happiness is wide open to all, and all enjoy the same conditions to attain to it.”

Heaven and Hell, Allan Kardec, Chap. 7, item 32

1st Part - Doctrine

ANGELS

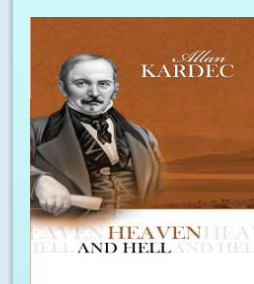

Angels are human souls who have attained the degree of perfection of perfection that beings are capable of, enjoying promised bliss in all its fullness.

Heaven and Hell Chap. 8, item 13

DEMONS

According to Spiritism, demons are as-yet imperfect spirits who are susceptible to regeneration and although located at the bottom of the scale they will nevertheless ascend it.

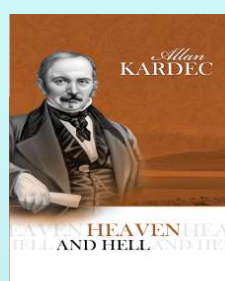

Heaven and Hell Chap. 9, item 21

HEAVEN

Where is heaven? Everywhere. No borders enclose it. Advanced worlds are the last stations leading to it; virtues facilitate the journey to it, while vices hinder access.

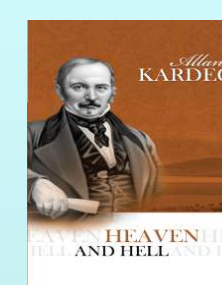

Heaven and Hell Chap. 3, item 18

HELL

Since suffering depends on the amount of imperfection, (...), the soul bears within itself its own punishment wherever it may be without having to be in some circumscribed place. Hell is wherever there re suffering souls...”

Heaven and Hell Chap. 7, item 5

PURGATORY

Purgatory is not some vague and uncertain notion; it is a physical reality that we can see, touch and endure. It is found on worlds of trials and atonements, and Erath is one of them. On Earth people atone their past and present for the good of their future.

Heaven and Hell Chap. 5, item 4

2nd Part - Examples

THE PASSAGE

Extinction of Organic Life

Rupture of Fluidic Link

Separation of Soul and Body

HAPPY SPIRITS

“My situation is quite happy, for I feel none of my former pain. I am recovered and am renewed.”

Mr. Sanson

AVERAGE SPIRITS

“I often failed good works. I didn't do all the things that an honest person would have done. I forgot God and that in turn drove me to other wrongs, which, even though acceptable according to human laws were offensive to God's decrees.” against the law of God.”

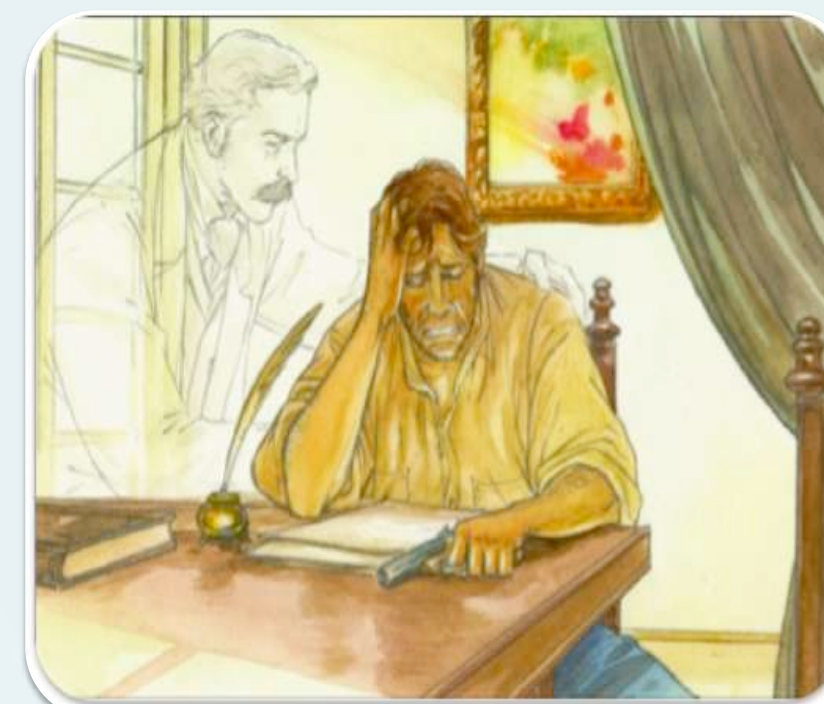

Joseph Bre

SUFFERING SPIRITS

“My spirit, held to the body by material bonds, had great difficulty in breaking free. I searched for my body but was both amazed and terrified at finding that I was lost in a whirlpool of shadows.”

Novel

SUICIDES

“Am I dead? Me? No ... I'm in my body... You don't know how much I'm suffering! I'm suffocating ... I'm abandoned. I fled suffering only to find torture.”

The Suicide at the Samaritaine

REPENTANT CRIMINALS

“I'm being punished because I realize my wrong and I ask God for forgiveness. I'm being punished by the remorse of having delayed my progress by taking the false path and for not listening to the cry of my conscience telling me that it was not by killing that I would reach my objective.”

Vergier

HARDENED SPIRITS

“Crime! It's just a word! Crime happens everywhere. I don't want to be pitied .. And I shall find out how to fight against this hateful light.”

Lapommeray

EARTHLY EXPIATIONS

“The sorrows of Earth are a preparation for the joys of heaven. Suffering is nothing more than the peel of a delectable fruit that yields courage and resignation. I had asked for suffering in order to achieve my purification.”

Marcel
