

Life in the Spirit World

The greatest surprise of physical death is that it places us face-to-face with our own conscience – Nosso Lar

WHAT IS THE SPIRIT-WORLD?

"The spirit-world is like a great city where individuals of all ranks and conditions see and meet each other... As in a city, circles are formed by similarities in tastes, and good and bad spirits share the same space without having to interact."

Physician in Brazil

Married with three children

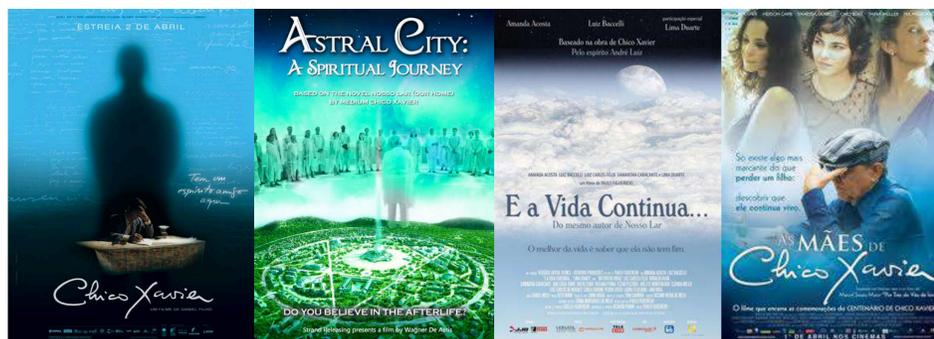

In order to bring valuable insights, to his earth-bound brothers and sisters, Andre Luiz had to renounce all conventions, including his own name.

With wisdom and discipline, Andre Luiz has transmitted to humankind valuable teachings by portraying the experiences of spirits who live in the spirit world.

"Nosso Lar" was the first in a series of novels that would literary catalyze the Spiritist movement, by awakening readers to the tangibility of spirit life and the interaction between the spiritual and material worlds. the study of Spiritism, as we know it in more recent years, would not be the same without the literary gifts presented by Andre Luiz and his loyal medium, Chico Xavier.

Chico heard voices and saw spirits since he was four years old. His first Spiritist meeting took place in May 1927.

Even though barely educated, Chico has published 458 books - the spirits of dead people dictated the texts to him through his mediumship.

His books sold an estimated 45 million copies, the profits of which were all donated to charitable organizations.

Toward the end of 1941, the spirit Emmanuel informed Chico Xavier about a project to publish books that would enable human beings to know what life is like in the spirit world.

Introduced by Emmanuel's as "a new friend and a brother in eternity" Andre Luiz used the mediumship of Chico Xavier over the course of 700 days to psychograph Nosso Lar (Astral City).
